

JEREMY SUMERAY

Jeremy Sumeray is currently on secondment, via the Sustainable Development Commission, to the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform, Construction Sector Unit where he brings operational and strategic business experience to bear on his role as co-Project Manager for the UK Sustainable Construction Strategy.

Jeremy is a strategy and marketing consultant with over 12 years experience of working in the construction industry with Redland and Lafarge. He has extensive experience in the food and drink sector having worked for Diageo and Allied Domecq in a range sales and marketing roles.

In his most recent role as Group Marketing Manager with Lafarge in the UK Jeremy raised awareness and knowledge of sustainability issues and led the Sustainable Construction programme for the Lafarge Group initiated through the Lafarge and WWF International Global Partnership.